

Playing cards

Object Card

The Civil War soldier had limited recreation opportunities. Cards and dice were considered sinful items during this era, but that did not mean they were not carried by many soldiers. Checkers, chess, and dominos were also played in camp. Note that Civil War playing cards had a military design on the back and the correct faces without numbers on the front.

